

CHAPTER- 6

REASONS FOR COMPETITIVE ADVANTAGES – ALLIANCES, HUMAN ASSETS AND SKILL SETS, LOCATION, AND NETWORK BENEFITS

This chapter continues our search for reasons of competitive advantage. Here, we will examine how alliances, human assets and skills, locations and network benefits can help a company perform better than their competitors.

1. ALLIANCES

Companies or entities with strategic alliances can get an edge over other competitors. Such alliances have meaning when they are formed between producers whose products are complementary to each other. Complementary goods are goods that are consumed together like tea and biscuits, bread and jam, and bread and butter.