Belonging to a group

There are many reasons why people feel that they belong to an ethnic group. They often have lots of things in common, such as a shared race, language, or culture. Ethnic groups can be large or small, and these days they can live together or can be spread all over the world.

SHARED RELIGION

Religion often creates a sense of cultural distinctiveness and can be a key factor within an ethnic group. Some religions, such as Christianity, can stretch across very diverse ethnic groups, for example, from the European communities to South Africa.

THE SOCIAL ANIMAL

People are social beings, those that live near each other often create communities and societies. During their lives they almost always socialize, or interact, with a large amount of people from other ethnic groups for various reasons, such as trade.

The Miao people are one of 55 Chinese ethnic minorities. Within the Miao there are many different clans.
