

MIGRATION

WHY DO PEOPLE MOVE AROUND?

PEOPLE ARE CONSTANTLY MOVING. THERE ARE MANY reasons why people relocate to a different place. Sometimes people are forced to migrate, by, for example, conflict or a natural

WAR

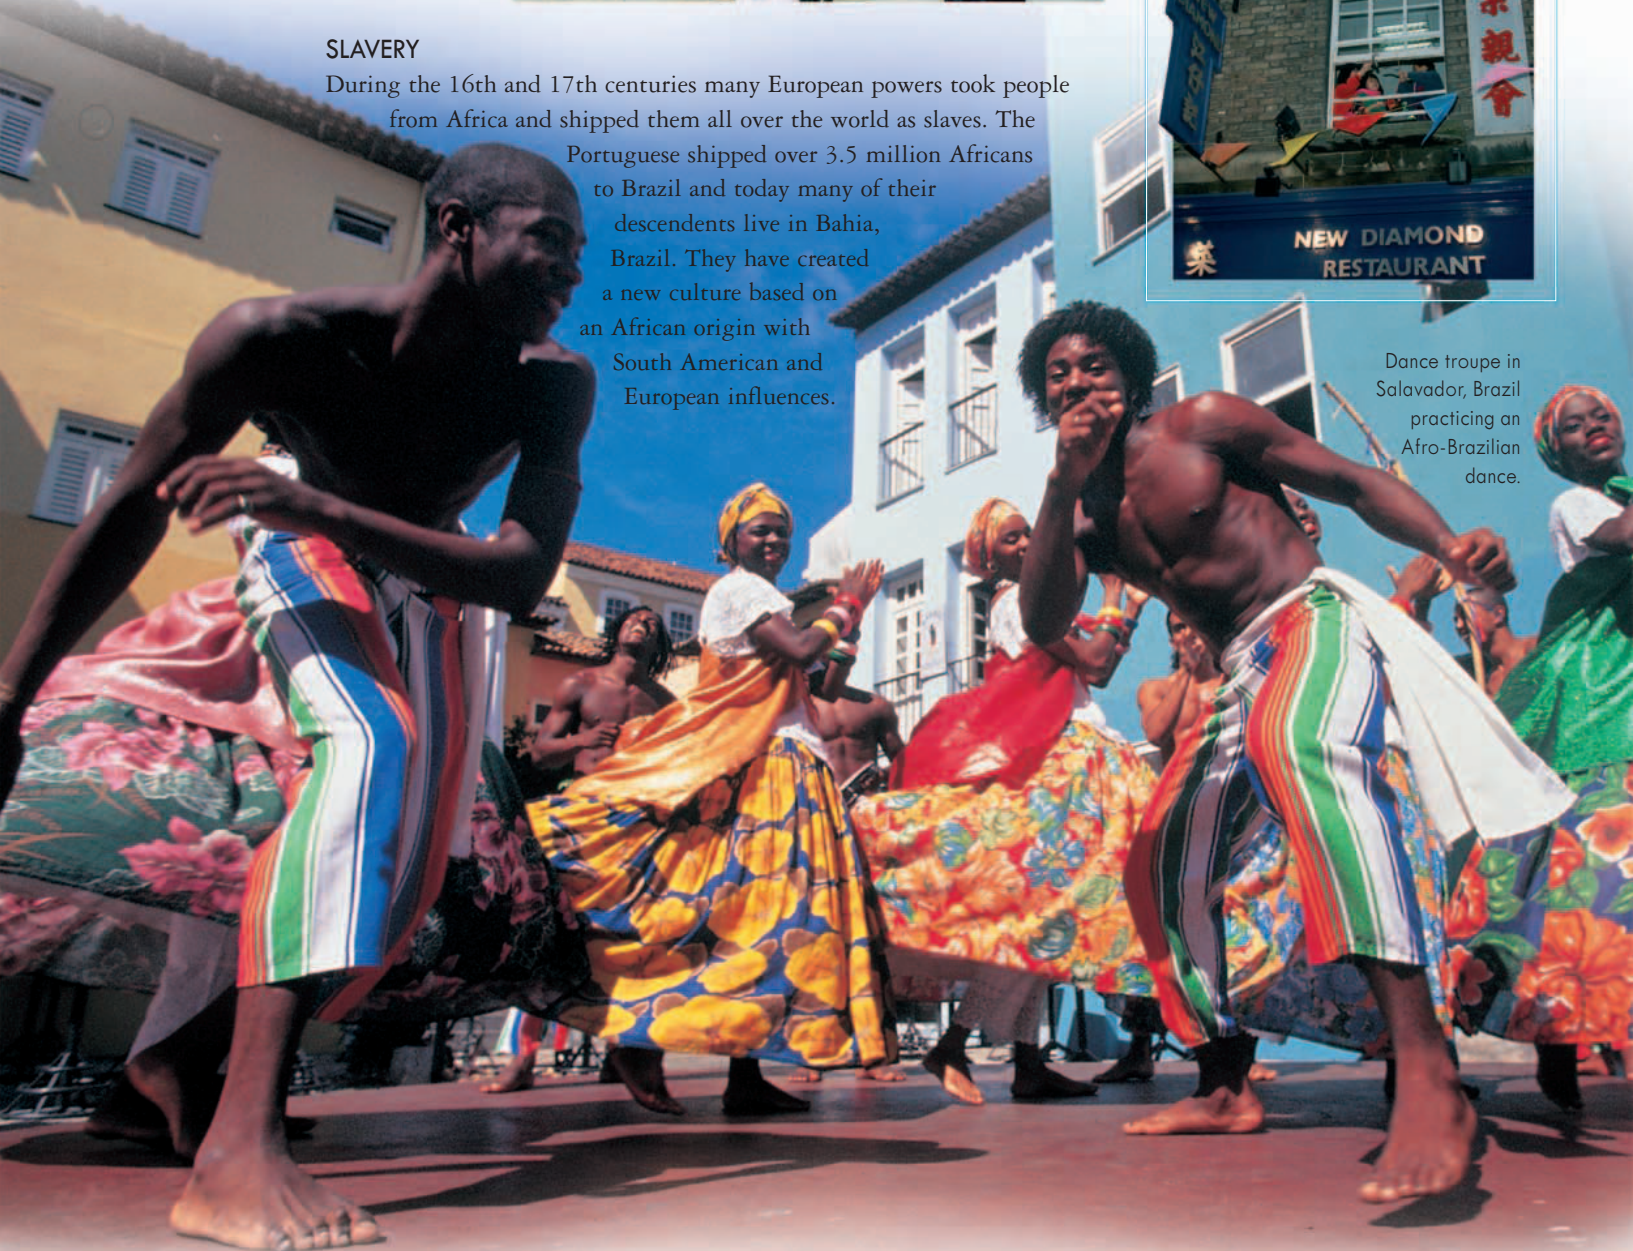

Conflict between nations or peoples often forces people to move to escape danger.

Here, hundreds of thousands of Afghans are on the move, fearing for their lives. They are refugees in their own country.

SLAVERY

During the 16th and 17th centuries many European powers took people from Africa and shipped them all over the world as slaves. The Portuguese shipped over 3.5 million Africans to Brazil and today many of their descendents live in Bahia, Brazil. They have created a new culture based on an African origin with South American and European influences.

IMMIGRATION

Many people yearn for a better life or job and move to find them. There are, for example, Chinese communities in many of the world's major cities.

Dance troupe in Salvador, Brazil practicing an Afro-Brazilian dance.