

Sauropelta

SORE-oh-PELT-ah

The sturdy Sauropelta was about the same size as a rhinoceros, but because of its thick, studded armour, it would have been a lot heavier.

Super shield

Sauropelta means “shield lizard”. Its tough skin and huge spikes helped protect it from harm, but it probably charged or ran away from most predators.

I had a broad beak and small teeth that were perfect for eating plants.

Flat skull

Bony spines

144

251 million years ago

200

145

66

Triassic

Jurassic

Cretaceous

Fact File