

Rhamphorhynchus

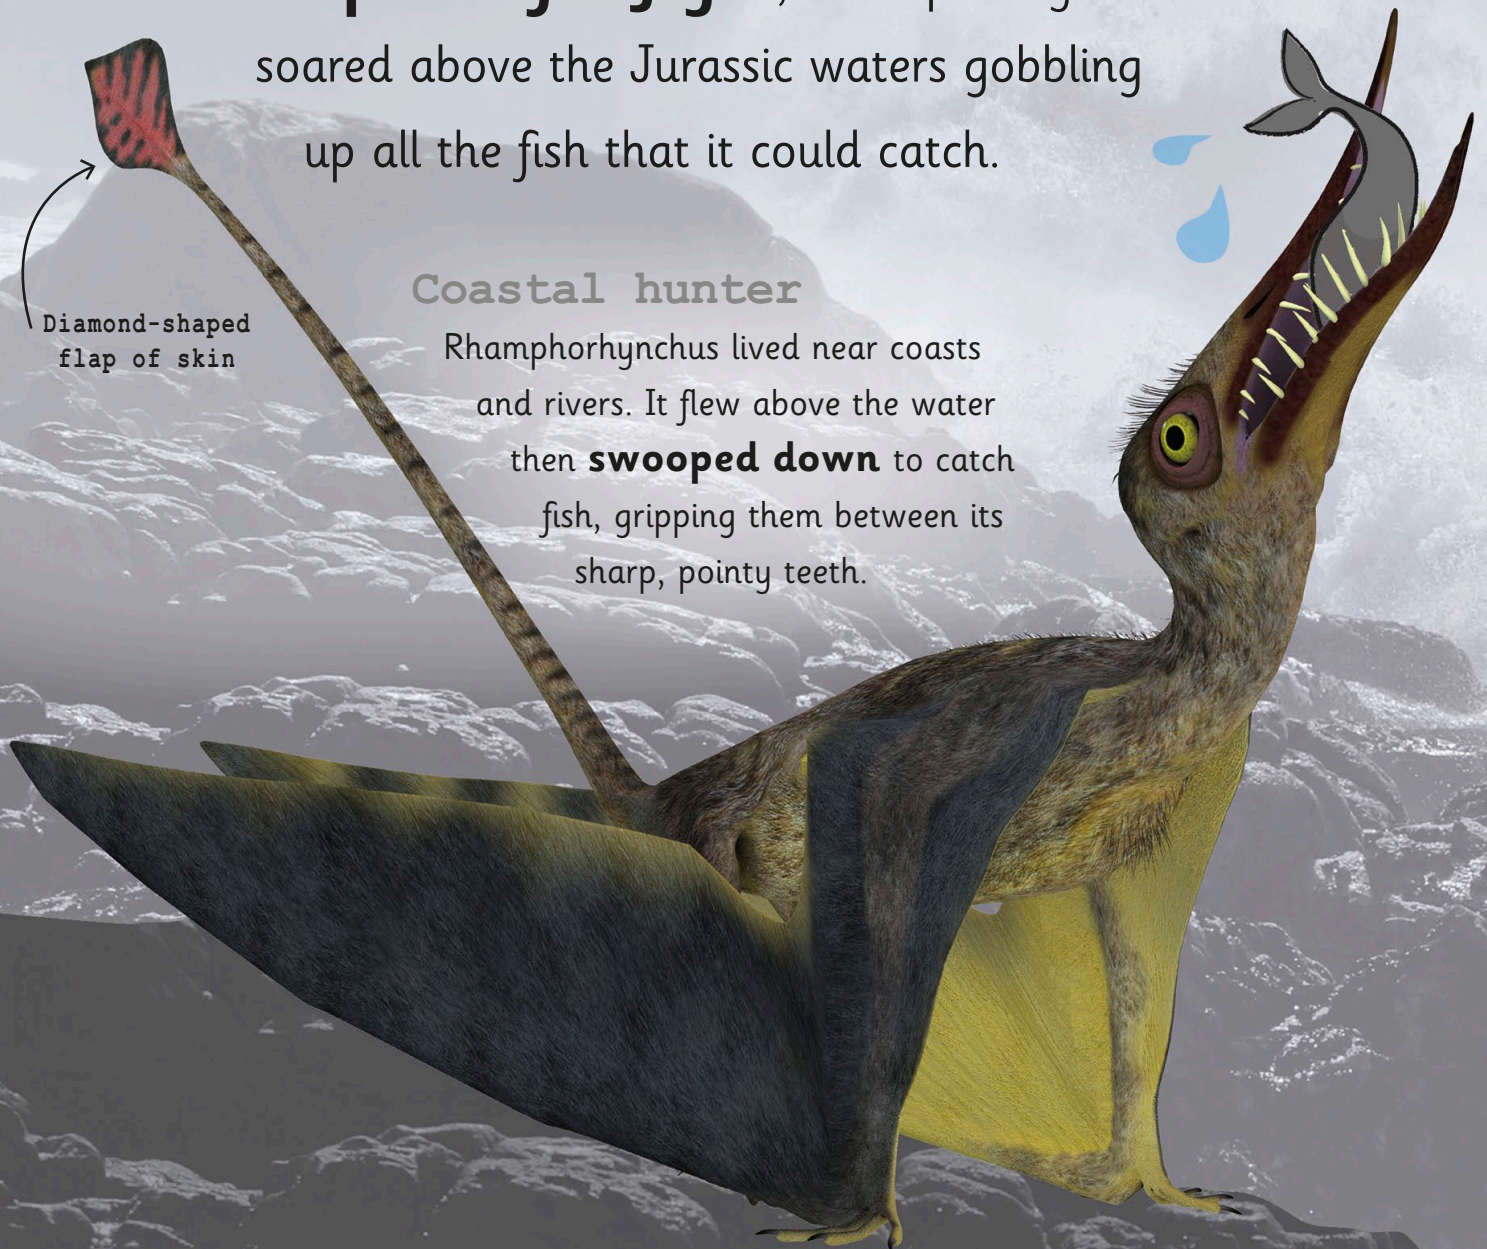

ram-foe-RINK-us

A small but powerful flyer, Rhamphorhynchus soared above the Jurassic waters gobbling up all the fish that it could catch.

Coastal hunter

Rhamphorhynchus lived near coasts and rivers. It flew above the water then swooped down to catch fish, gripping them between its sharp, pointy teeth.

174

251 million years ago

200

145

66

Triassic

Jurassic

Cretaceous

Fact File