

SEMINOLE PATCHWORK

Used by the Seminole tribe of Native Americans in Florida, this type of strip-pieced patchwork is useful for borders or blocks. The method often involves cutting pieced strips at an angle and rejoining them.

METHOD 1: STRAIGHT BAND

1 Cut strips from three contrasting fabrics. Here the width of the strips from top to bottom of the picture is in the ratio of 2:1:3, plus seam allowances, which ensures that the white will be evenly offset either side of the centre line of the finished patchwork. With the narrowest strip in the centre and with right sides together, join the three strips, leaving a 6mm ($\frac{1}{4}$ in) seam allowance. Press the seams towards the darker colour.

2 Using a rotary cutter and quilter's ruler, cut across the joined strips to make pieced strips of the desired width.

3 Alternating the top and bottom of each adjacent strip and with right sides together, sew the strips together again, leaving a 6mm ($\frac{1}{4}$ in) seam allowance. Press all the seams in the same direction.
