

▶ FREE-MOTION APPLIQUÉ

Free-motion appliqué uses the same idea as frayed-edge appliqué, but the shapes are stitched on using a free-motion, or darning, foot. Stitch around each shape as many times as you wish. Often, the piece looks best when you've stitched around it a few times, slightly altering the stitching line with each pass. See page 137 for troubleshooting information on sewing with a free-motion foot.

1 With a sharp pair of fabric scissors, cut out the desired shape from your fabric of choice leaving approximately a 1cm ($\frac{3}{8}$ in) seam allowance.

2 Using a fabric glue stick, pins, or tacking stitches, position the shape in place on the right side of the background fabric.

3 Using your sewing machine and a free-motion sewing foot, stitch inside the edge of the appliqué fabric. The free-motion foot will allow you to easily stitch the free-form shape of your choice.

4 Stitch around the shape as many times as you desire, then remove the pins or tacking stitches, if used. Over time, the edges will fray, but you can speed up this process by putting the finished item through a normal wash and dry cycle.
