

Business Owners

Business owners must make key decisions at all times. This might include decisions of raising further capital, investment decisions, choosing a project to invest in and others.

For this, they must do a thorough financial statement analysis to understand the company's past performance. Owners might even look at competitors' data to understand their strengths and weaknesses, and make decisions.

Entrepreneurs

These are similar to business owners but they might not have much past data to analyze. Moreover, there might not be stable economic or financial information to make a decision. However, with whatever limited information they have, they need to take decisions.
