

We evaluate and understand the sources of revenue and sources of growth for the company. We see which are the segments that contribute most to the growth.

Going ahead, we will understand each segment in segment analysis. But as of now, the basic question is about sales- its source and its volume. So, with this we get started with Income Statement Analysis. Let us build on the same.

We deduct all expenses made from the sales to arrive at margins. They create assets and equity that creates further revenue. This creates additional revenue and the cycle goes on.

