

If a company is able to increase its prices while retaining the sales volumes, that is a great indicator of the company's products and its market position. It shows that even after a price increase, the customers are willing to stick to the company.

Thus, we need to understand whether the rise in sales comes from price, volume, or both. One can further ask questions like:

So, these questions are important to understand the revenue growth of any given company.

3. Growth of other income

The next question we ask is about the growth of other income. It is the financial or non-operating part of the income statement. And here, the numbers need not follow a pattern. These largely depend on the financial decisions of the company.

Operating Asset Turnover Ratios	4.40	4.26	3.96	4.19	3.53	1.55
Increase due to Price Vs Increase due to Volumes. Have an idea about company's pricing power too
Other Income Growth	44.22%	32.21%	-1.19%	1.90%	-46.86%
Other Income/ Total Financing Assets	7.27%	6.09%	8.08%	6.64%	6.17%
COGS						