

We need to check the significant numbers in the “information on subsidiary companies” table, including:

So, we can check all these things and try to understand how well the company's subsidiaries perform. This gives us a good understanding of the company's operations other than the core parent company - other parts of the business or subsidiaries.

In the next segment, we will talk about the segmental performance of the company.

