

Frequent Hiring/Firing of CFO and auditor

In case anything is financially wrong with a company, the first people to be blamed will be the CFO and auditor. It is a red flag if they are resigning or being fired frequently. When someone opens the company's books in detail and then disassociates with the company, it is a warning sign.

If one person does it, it might be due to personal reasons. However, let's say a company has had 4 CFOs in the last five years. This is generally a red flag that needs to be evaluated. We need to dig deeper into it. Frequent hiring and firing of CFOs and auditors can be a warning sign.
