

1 Unqualified Opinion

Clean and clear opinion given by the auditor about the practices of the company. It is the best opinion an auditor can give when they think that everything disclosed by the company is correct.

This is proof of good accounting practices and shows good systems and processes are in place.

2 Qualified Opinion

The auditor opines that something might not be right. This kind of opinion falls somewhere between a negative and a positive opinion. Here the auditor refrains from giving an unqualified opinion, but at the same time is not giving a negative opinion as well. They cannot completely say if something is wrong but they can not confidently say that all systems in place are correct.

This kind of opinion means one needs to be cautious before entering into an investment with the company. Qualified opinion is a red flag when it comes to any company's auditor report.
