

With this, we come to the conclusion of the book. We've learned a lot about financial analysis. However, this isn't the end - it is just the start. Now that you've learned the entire process, remember practice is key. We will never get comfortable with financial data if we do not practice. For someone new, the amount of data on listed companies can be overwhelming. But with practice, one becomes comfortable with the same.