Lets now continue with Annual Inputs in the excel sheet. Next, lets fill identify and fill up "reverse float like items". As discussed, the reverse float is when the company's capital is being used by a buyer or supplier or any third part and the company does not receive the benefits of this capital. As we saw earlier, this includes things like - Accounts Receivables, Advance to Suppliers etc.

Reverse Float like Items & One time Recoverables

We see that the security deposit paid is a reverse float for which no interest or benefit is received. We can now input the data for the same for 2020 and 2021. The security deposit is added to the reverse float-like items (short-term loans and advances). We find retention money receivable, which is similar to a security deposit. They are also added to the reverse float like items. The uncertified revenue from the works contract must also be added to the reverse float-like items (short-term loans and advances).
