

Fundraise Is A Part Of the journey- The Ultimate Is To Build A Business

Fundraise is a glamorized outcome and is seen and spoken of more as a social benchmark. But fundraising is just a part of the process raising capital does not mean success. A lot of companies go bust and cannot make it even after raising significant capital. The main goal should be to build a business that will attract funds and capital. Do not get overwhelmed by the same and do not lose focus on business to be built.

Remember, quality of your business should be the focus.

Fundraising is just a stepping stone to building your business.

Business is the larger picture and the ultimate goal you need to work on.

The fundraising process can be quite consuming, and you may lose sight of the big picture. Focus on the business. Though this may happen sooner or later.