

Fundraising is a dynamic, no-rules environment, and the stakes are very high. Let us begin with the same and discuss in a step by step manner.

When you first begin, it may seem quite overwhelming. However, with time and repeated use through the book, you shall get comfortable with the terms and the process.

Once you discuss your business with a few investors, you will start understanding the entire process and get more comfortable. The process of fundraising and talking to investors will have endless rejections. However, you just need 1-2 yes to raise your first round. The journey is going to be emotionally-testing, however with time you will get comfortable with the same.

We try to discuss everything in as much detail as possible and in an as actionable manner as possible. It should be a very fun journey to learn together.
