

We can see in the chart below how different investors are relevant at different phases.

You can see friends and family are there right from the start. Only after you've made some progress while still in the kitchen phase can you talk to the people you know and the incubators and the accelerators. You can talk to them at a similar stage during the kitchen phase.

