

4.2 HOW TO FIND INVESTORS?

In the previous section, we discussed who the different investors are and what stage in your journey each kick in. We learned that every investor is looking for different things before investing. Now, let us discuss where and how to find investors. We will also discuss the different ways to reach these investors.

HOW TO FIND THESE INVESTORS?

1. PERSONAL CONNECTS

If you know any investor personally, there is nothing better than that. It is also helpful if you have someone who knows another investor and can recommend you. So this category of investors with whom you are personally connected leads to warmest introductions. These people have the highest probability of investing in you since they already know you. They do not have to build a relation with you from scratch.

The main challenge with personal connections is that we will only know a few investors, if at all. Most of us will need to go outside our connections to find more invest

F

ks