

10. ANGEL NETWORKS

India is home to multiple Angel networks like Mumbai Angel Networks, Hyderabad Angel Networks, Delhi Angel Networks, and other platforms like Ah! Ventures, Venture Catalysts, etc. Angel Networks are when a group of Angel investors come together and appoint a management team to bring investment deals to them. Investors listen to companies pitching together and then some of them might decide to invest in the same.

Other people looking to invest also join one of these Angel Networks.

So once an investor is a part of the Angel network, the management brings in new deals every few days. The management usually does the first round of evaluation, and then if the investors like the business, they may decide to invest in the same.

Mumbai Angels Network

Angel Network take a cut for arranging search meetings and investors. This cut is similar to investment banking fees and can be in the form of cash or equity.

To reach out to these networks, you have to apply through the official website, and then they ask for relevant details. If are interested.
