

2. INTRODUCTION

This will be a basic introduction about what your company does and what field it is in. Explain as concisely as possible, about what the company does. Investors will not read long paragraphs. We will look at few examples for introduction going ahead.

4. PROBLEM

Next, they expect to understand the problem you are trying to solve. For example:

- With EVs, you can say that you are trying to become much more sustainable in terms of transportation.
- Another problem that you can address is the increasing prices of gasoline day by day.
- You can also aim to make the vehicles more economical for the users

3. TARGET AUDIENCE

The next important information that they expect is the target audience or TG. The target group includes all the people who will buy or use your products. Be as specific as possible when the explaining target audience.

