

When you go through the sample pitch decks, you will see different companies use pictorial representation. How they communicate more with less. Here are two such examples -

MapMe

You can go through the MapMe pitch deck and see how little content has been used. On slide for value proposition, as shown above you will notice that they have only used logos and only a couple of words. They could have easily used long content for this slide.

F

ks