

The idea is to explain the product to the investors in the simplest way possible and not overcomplicate it. It is important to instill confidence in your investors that you are a person they should invest in and that you can grow their capital.

This is how you can better prepare for investor pitches. Assume that few pitches will not go well. However, beyond that you will find your voice. Also, it will require constant iterations as you work on your business.

for documents like financial pursuing and finding more F about your business. In the next chapter, we will understand the different documents that they may ask.