

SUMMING UP...

These are some of the common details the investor will ask. The more detailed the sheet is, the better they will understand your business.

- As discussed, do not oversell and keep the numbers as realistic as possible, which will hold true in the market.
- Suppose you forecast you'll increase your free trials to 1000 next month and 2000 and 5000 in the following months.
- In this case, the investors will know that this is unlikely and that they are being over-promised. So ensure that you paint a realistic picture so that the investors can make an informed decision.

The next section will discuss things you must remember before. If you struggle with excel, you should seek from someone who is familiar with same.
