

6. USE YOUR PROJECTIONS FOR OPERATIONS TOO

You can use your projections in the future for operations to hold yourself accountable too. You can always go back to the sheet to see what you were thinking at the time of raising capital and if you are meeting expectations. You can check if you are lifting the targets and the KPIs.

If you are not hitting them, you must find the reasons; if you are hitting them, you need to identify where you can do better.

A financial projection will come in handy for fundraising and keep yourself accountable to the number you have projected. However, this utility has no impact when one is making the financial projections.
