

making
money out
of sales

You have figured out how to proceed with every part of the business, and you know that it is working well (that is, you are making money out of the sales that you are generating).

grow sales to 10x

The next thing you want to do is grow the sales in the coming year. To do that, you might need additional capital.

At early stages, if business performs one may be able to access additional capital from existing investors or new introductions to other investors. This can be a big strength when a business is growing and needs capital to keep moving quickly and not slow down the growth process.

Having investors with deep pockets or good connections can be a real asset for any company at this stage.
