

So far, we've discussed about reaching out to investors, pitch decks, pitching the idea, questions, and answers, and the documents required. Now, valuations are an important part of the entire activity that needs to be understood.

Having a solid logic behind how you value your business is important. It will be helpful when negotiating the final offer.

F

ks

Course Studio