

SUMMING UP...

You should be set for the valuation round.

- ✓ You have all the numbers in place.
- ✓ You also know how to create your pitch deck and financial projections.
- ✓ how to reach out to investors, where to find them, and the kinds of investors.
- ✓ Then comes the pitching, the follow-up question and answers, and the follow-up documents.
- ✓ We went through a long list of documents that the investors might require.
- ✓ We also saw valuation, what drives valuation, and the different methods that can be used to reach a value.

So, now you have done everything required from a fundraiser's point of view. Now it's all about the execution and to keep working on the business, which is the main focus.

These are the main fundraising activities that need to be learned and done. If you execute them well and your business has potential, you should be able to raise funds. It is a fact that not everyone raises capital. However, these processes take a lot of time. Make sure you are focused on your business as the process
