

SUMMING UP...

Think of your business as your ship, and it is you who has to navigate it. Thus, you have to take a call on how to keep your business running. Some people even take up jobs to sustain themselves. The salary can be used to fund the start-up you are working on.

Thus, depending on the nature of the business, what you are comfortable with, and what the situation is, keep your business afloat and maybe you can build even without investor. Every company has to go through this phase when they have to get creative to keep their business running.
