

When do you need to raise funds?

Now let us discuss conditions when you need a fundraise and when you do not. These are general that we are discussing and one needs to evaluate based on their business and in stage whether or not they need fundraise whether or not you raise capital depends on factors relating to:

- Industry
- Business
- The size of the opportunity

You need to be very sure whether or not you need a fundraise and why you need it. You must have a clear answer about what you expect to achieve with the capital. Here are few things that might help you understand whether or not you need capital.

01. BUSINESSES

a. Product Business:

These businesses usually have a longer period at pre-revenue stage. Simply put, they require investment and time to build the product. They also need time to get the market feedback and some time for market adoption. As a result, we can say that product businesses require more upfront capital as compared to service businesses

F

ks