

02 DO YOU HAVE TRACTION?

We will cover traction in the next chapter. It is one of the most important concepts you must understand as a founder.

Whatever you are doing or your approach is, you must be able to demonstrate to that your idea is working. Naturally, they will have questions. But they should be convinced that what you are doing solves a problem and can be scaled. If they disagree, and they will not invest in your business. We will understand traction going ahead, but things that demonstrate what you are doing to be working are sales, users, repeat users, time spent on platform, referrals, etc. Different businesses need to follow different metrics that we will study going ahead.

For example, if your company manufactures EV batteries and you have sales, investors know that you know how to sell such batteries. Also, what are you doing is
