

2. REGISTERED USERS

Social media companies like Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter considered register users as traction matrix in their early years. More people were signing up, more was it signally that it is working.

Early stage startups can use registered users as traction. Some investors may be comfortable funding few lacs users while other may need in millions. It also depends on industry specific factors.

3. TRAFFIC

Traffic refers to the number of people that visit your website, people taking part in some action on your website, and the average time a user spends on your website.

F

your offline stores. For example, 500 people visit your store daily. Traffic is important for media related startups, How many people are coming daily? How many articles are they reading, etc.

your offline stores. For example, 500 people visit your store daily. Traffic is important for media related startups, How many people are coming daily? How many articles are they reading, etc.