

OWN SAVINGS OR FAMILY MONEY

Kitchen phase is when you use your own savings or your close family's money, or you start it as a side business with your job. This is where you use whatever limited money you have, even if it is few thousand rupees. You don't go out to seek external funding. Initially, even your friends or distant family members will be hesitant to trust your business idea.

So this is when you take the risk as it is your idea and want to do something with it. As everything is about you, the risk also belongs to you.

Risk includes financial, time, and money risk. Right now, your business does not have enough clarity and depth as you are just starting, and your business has no operating history. Your business has very high survival risk at this stage.

F

capital. They may help will not put any meaningful capital. It will mostly be your money with friends and family coming in once you have some progress.