

In the previous chapter, we discussed the journey of a startup, traction, how to understand whether you are ready to get your first cheque and whether your business requires that first round of funding. So after having figured out the answers, this chapter will help us understand more about the investors. We will discuss who investors are, what they want, and how they make their decisions.

F

ks

Course Studio