

02 RIGHT TO WIN THE MARKET

Whatever your value proposition is, will it work in the market (traction plays an important role). So the investor must be properly convinced that this particular business approach will win the market. So simply put, whatever you are doing is working correctly, and you now have the ability to gather market share based on your business.

So what are you offering over and above the competitors that ensures that you will win in this specific market? Traction helps investors build confidence about this. Whatever you are doing is working in the market. You need to have a convincing answer and need to have traction to support claim. If you have the traction, it simply increases your chances of raising capital.
