RIGHT TEAM TO EXECUTE

It is basically the people that they are partnering with.

So here the investors want to have confidence in you, the co-founders, and the team you plan to put together for the business.

When you raise the first round of funds, you are not required to have a set team. You will generally build the team after raising the first cheque. You may have spoken to a few people, and they might have agreed to join your business once the fundraising is closed.
