

The survey is an effective primary as well as a secondary source of data. For businessmen/entrepreneurs however, it is very easy to be biased and fall prey to wishful thinking, which takes them away from the reality of the demand scenario. Thus, all forecasting should have an objective and quantitative basis to some extent, combined with general surveys that are subjective.

Demand Analysis for Indian Cement Industry.

