

Demand - Supply Scenario for Indian Cement Industry - Conclusion

- Demand growth outlook for cement industry is stable and steady.
- There is no erratic or abrupt capacity expansion planned going forward.
- As a result, capacity utilisation is expected to improve going forward over medium term.
- However, there can be cyclical or short-term factors that affect the demand-supply scenario in the short term. But, in the medium term and long term, the balance seems to be stable.
- However this can change as external news comes so a constant tracking is needed.

Companies in the Cement Industry shall enjoy increased profitability over the medium term. The structural outlook for long term too looks stable.

(Even such basic analysis and constant updates help the investor and business manager recognise structural changes in the demand-supply scenario.

For more detailed research, more emphasis should be put over the individual factors that affect demand and supply.)