

Export-Import Duties

Not all industries involve the import and export of goods and services. But those that do, need to pay differing amounts of duties, for each nation that they import from or export to.

Entrepreneurs and business managers must understand the export and import duties charged by both the countries—the source and the destination country.

