Regulatory bodies, Relevant ministries, and key people in the government

Government updates like recent circulars, updates and interviews.

It is important to know and keep track of government policies, key technological upgrades around the industry and changes in customers' tastes and preferences.

However, what remains a challenge is not just knowing the news that is relevant but also having a relevant understanding of the consequences that the news will have. Being open to and listening to multiple interpretations and views remains one of the best defences of an entrepreneur or investor.

The important sources of industry news are:

- Newspaper and TV
- YouTube channels about the industry
- Books and magazines
- Management interviews and commentary at events

- Ministry circulars and regulator's circulars
- Google alerts about the industry
- International news about the industry in other countries
