

Industry trends shed light on the direction in which the industry is moving. It helps in visualizing the outcome of the industry. It focuses on the current state of the industry and the way things are done in the industry.

- It also focuses on the standard practices followed in the industry and the key changes that are underway.

- These practices can relate to any activity, big or small, in the industry and any vertical within the industry.
- It can also relate to the industry practices in marketing, product development, and financing and so on.

Defining 'industry practice' is difficult. One plausible definition is an industry-accepted way of doing something that works. Let us work with this definition for now and proceed.

Both kinds of practices can relate to any vertical or a function in the industry.
