

Pain Relievers by Agrochemical Industry

Field Officers

Field officers go to the field and increase awareness about various products and how to use them. This helps the farmer to stay up-to-date with new offerings.

Community Engagement Activities

Agrochemical companies organise farmer community engagement events. These events give social proof to the products and reduce community pressure in case of failure.

Safety Equipment and Knowledge

Companies often provide safety equipment to farmers at a lower price. They also provide information about their health safety. This is to reduce health hazards of farmers.

Favourable forms of Application

Agrochemical companies try to make agrochemicals in such a form that application has the least wastage. For example, powders or drip application methods.

Brands and Lab test Approvals

Agrochemical companies try to build brands and share lab test reports to reduce uncertainty relating to underperformance in the farmer's mind.

How to differentiate

We see that not all pains are relieved by the current value propositions. New firms can come up with innovative solutions and create a stronger proposition. Examples of initiatives: Give free application instruments or innovative mechanism to allow credit flexibility.
