

Value System

No industry operates in a vacuum. Industries are linked to each other as suppliers or customers. The industry's value chain is linked to the value chain of upstream supplier industries and downstream buyer industries. The result is a larger stream of activities known as the value system. In a value system, changes in any industry's value chain affect the other value chains. Therefore, change in any value chain, affects the entire value system.^[4]

With this, we end our discussion around value chain. Now, spend sometime sketching out value chain for businesses you know!
