

Premium TWS Earphones

Tiny, expensive, listening machines

In 2024, if you're in the market for a premium pair of TWS earbuds, you're really looking for top-tier tech and innovation packed into a solid, well-built package that justifies the price tag. The competition was fierce. With all the innovation happening in the space, it wasn't immediately clear who would come out on top. But as I started punching in the scores, the subtle differences between the models started to shine through. Before long, I had my winner for the Digit Zero1 Award, along with the Digit Best Buy Award...

Winner: Sennheiser Momentum 4 TWS

Right out of the box, the sound profile of the Sennheiser Momentum 4 TWS showcases a pronounced emphasis on the lows and highs, with neutral mids. When you're listening to these earbuds, the sound is immersive, and a bit of EQ tweaking unlocks the potential to enjoy any type of content. On the ANC front, once you achieve a proper fit, the passive isolation combined with active noise cancellation eliminates almost all ambient noise in the mids and lows. Sharp, sudden noises might sneak through, but in everyday usage, the ANC performance remains stellar. The earbuds' microphones, however, leave room for improvement. Your voice will sound clear enough for casual calls, but the amount of background noise picked up is noticeably higher than expected, slightly holding these earbuds back from perfection. As a package, they are the best, making them our pick for the top spot in the Best Performing Premium TWS Earphones in Digit Zero1 Awards 2024.

Runner-Up: JBL Live Beam 3

The JBL Live Beam 3 strikes a balance between performance and broad listener appeal, earning top ratings for their sound quality and an excellent score for immersiveness. These earbuds cater to most listeners with their sound quality, although a few niches might prefer alternatives. With a secure fit, the Live Beam 3 produces a bass-heavy sound complemented by detailed highs, ensuring no loss of musical intricacies. Activating LDAC through the app further enhances the experience for devices that support it, delivering near-lossless audio quality. The earbuds shine with genres featuring rich vocals and classic instrumentals. They came close, but fell short by just one point in the race to the top spot in the Digit Zero1 Awards.

Best Buy: Google Pixel Buds Pro 2

At ₹19,999, the Google Pixel Buds Pro 2 strike a fantastic balance between everything. Right out of the box, the sound signature impresses with a fairly well-rounded profile. The bass is punchy but controlled, the mids are clear and engaging, and the highs have enough sparkle to keep things lively without crossing into harshness. One of the standout features here is Google's Adaptive Sound. And for those who like more control, the Pixel Buds app offers a custom EQ. You can tweak the sound profile to suit your preferences – perfect for audiophiles who want every detail dialled in just right. The case is compact and sturdy, with a smooth matte finish that resists smudges. You get up to 31 hours of playback with the case, which is plenty for all-day use or even a weekend trip without a charger. The overall package of the Google Pixel Buds Pro 2, considering the price, made it our pick for the winner of the Digit Best Buy Award 2024, in the Premium TWS Earphones category.
