

The Siege of Petersburg

The battle for Petersburg was fought over months of siege warfare. United States general Ulysses S. Grant and Confederate general Robert E. Lee matched each other earthwork for earthwork—over 100 miles (160km) altogether—though Grant continually tried to break the stalemate by stretching Lee’s lines to breaking point.