

KEY MOMENT

SURRENDER OF THE TENNESSEE

The CSS Tennessee was the pride of the Confederate fleet stationed at Mobile Bay. In the final conflict she went head to head with Admiral Farragut's flagship, USS Hartford, and came close to ramming her, but could only manage a glancing blow. Pounded from all sides by the Hartford and the other wooden Union ships, the Tennessee (in the foreground) had her funnel shot away, reducing engine power, and her rudder mechanism destroyed. Then the Union monitor Chickasaw began a relentless close-range fire. The Tennessee's armor held but the crew was powerless to fight back. Admiral Buchanan himself was wounded and had no option but to surrender.
