

Entered, according to Act of Congress in the year 1865, by J. A. Arthur, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

THE DAY OF JUBELO.

E. B. Bensell, Pinxt. Photo. and Pub. by Phil. Pho. Co., 730 Chestnut St.

A new life

For most former slaves the amendment's passing was a joyful time. Celebrations took place on plantations throughout the South. Couples were finally allowed to marry, and many people dropped their slave names.