

we had not. It was a remnant of the inherited curse for sin. We had purged it away, with blood offerings.”

GENERAL JOSHUA L. CHAMBERLAIN, WHO OVERSAW THE OFFICIAL LAYING DOWN OF ARMS BY THE CONFEDERATE ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA AT APPOMATTOX, IN HIS MEMOIRS THE PASSING OF THE ARMIES, 1915

Signing the terms of surrender

An hour and a half's discussion was enough to end four years of war. This wood engraving of The Surrender of General Lee to General Grant at Appomattox Court House is based on an illustration by Alfred R. Waud, who covered the Civil War as a press correspondent.