

Remembering the war

Black G.A.R. veterans parade in New York City in 1912. The following year, the Gettysburg anniversary commemoration attracts some 50,000 former combatants from both sides, but Black veterans are excluded and some white veterans refuse to attend.