

The voice of abolition

The Liberator newspaper, founded in Boston in 1831 by William Lloyd Garrison, is published weekly until the last issue on December 29, 1865. It is uncompromising in its call for the complete and immediate abolition of slavery.